Mark Twain, author of Life on the Mississippi, on New Orleans:

"...It has been said that a Scotchman has not seen the world until he has seen Edinburgh; and I think that I may say that an American has not seen the United States until he has seen Mardi-Gras in New Orleans...New Orleans food is as delicious as the less criminal forms of sin...."

About the Authors:

Steven W. Siler is a firefighter-cum-chef serving both in the Deep South and the Pacific Northwest. He is the best-selling author of the Signature Tastes cookbook series. Long marinated in the epicurean heritage of the Deep South, Steven has spent over 20 years in the much-vaulted restaurant industry from BOH to FOH to chef. In addition, he has served as an editor and contributing writer for several food publications. When not trying to shove food down his fellow firefighters' gullets, he enjoys sailing and sampling the finest of scotches and wines, and has an irrational love affair with opera.

Paula Garriott is an award-winning writer who has covered such diverse topics as politics, crime and entertainment in her mostly journalism career. She has served as communications director for several organizations and has also worked in the fundraising arena.

The daughter of a butcher, she has been refining her palate since childhood and loves to cook. An avid cookbook collector herself, she currently has more than 100 vintage, specialty and regional cookbooks. This is her second cookbook. Signature Tastes of Las Vegas was released in spring of 2012.

Paula first came to New Orleans in 2004 and lived there during Hurricane Katrina. Although she moved to Las Vegas in 2006, she gets back to the Crescent City several times a year, is a Mystic Krewe of Nyx sister, doesn't miss a mardi gras and she knows what it means to miss New Orleans, enough that she is working to move back to her adopted home.
