This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1877. Excerpt: ... The labor was performed by two men by day and two by night. Four men in all. The following figures are the result of practical work in the city of Utica, under what is known as Lowe's Patent, recently introduced and now in operation in that city. It was expected that Mr. Fish would be here to answer any questions that would be asked him respecting it, but he has not yet arrived. I will now read the figures. There was used at the works of the Utica company, N. Y., in the manufacture of gas under the Lowe process, during the month of September, 1875: Anthracite coal, stove size, 92-1955 tons. Crude petroleum, 9,477 gallons. Gas made, 3,050,600 c. f. By jet photometer, 20 candle power. The labor was performed by two men by day and two by night. The first of these results was obtained under the Gwynne-Harris process, and the last under Lowe's patent. Mr. Neal--I move that we adjourn until eight o'clock this evening, and that we re assemble at ten o'clock to morrow morning. Carried. The Association then adjourned until eight o'clock in the evening. Evening Session. October 20, 1875--8 p. M. The Association met pursuant to adjournment, and was called to order by the President, who said: Gentlemen: We who are present, though few in number, yet representing vast interests, have requested that a gentleman, a distinguished chemist and philosopher, should speak to us to-night on matters connected with our profession. He did not come here to speak to a large audience, but he did come here to tell us of facts in chemistry professionally known and acknowledged, which relate to our profession, so that the information he will lay before us can be carried home to every portion of our common country, and that we might know what learned men and learned chemists can tell us ...
